Overview

Hi, I am Souvik Sarkar — a technical writer with experience in programming and open source tools.

This page is meant for recruiters and managers hiring for technical writing roles. I hope that the samples and additional resources provided here will help them decide whether I am good enough for an interview.

Work samples

Over the last several years, my day job involves writing open source technical documentation for my employer. I learnt a lot about modularity, the docs-as-code paradigm, and collaborating in the world of open source software.

This section contains links to merged pull requests for the projects on which I worked. If you want to know how I perform in a professional environment, closely observing the pull requests will reveal the details that matter.
